From the winners:

"We were out this weekend with many others at the fairgrounds. Lots of people looking! We went out at 11 pm Sun night to check out a few fire hydrants, but no luck. My husband had an epiphany at 1 am Monday morning. The stirrups and hose was not horse barns and fire department but BASEBALL! On "Bows" road. Narrowed it right down. So fun!"

The Clues and Answers:

Clue #1

Depending how it's read,
I don't want you to be misled (red not read)
I am an asset in our town,
you can find me all around (several hundred fire hydrants)
Iowa does make some sense, (Field of Dreams)
but their future is on the fence (BB Field may be closing)
Get on your walking shoes, (It's not downtown)
this one you'll lose if you snooze

Clue #2

'Tis the season for stirrups and hose (Baseball socks)
Gift-wrapped up with ribbons and bows (Bowes Rd.)
Beyond the field, just past the fence (Near the street)
How it's read helps it all make sense (Again, red not read)
